

Cashing-in your empty drink containers is getting faster, easier, and more convenient across California.

The state's first nonprofit dealer cooperative is rolling out 200 new redemption sites on behalf of its member retailers in areas without recycling centers.

- Adding reverse vending machines
- Mobile recycling trucks
- Bag-drop locations
- And recycling depots where consumers pick which options work best for them.

The sites join hundreds of additional innovative redemption options coming to communities across the state to give Californians more choices, close to where they shop.

Creating simpler ways to redeem deposits on CRV beverage containers, which now include wine, liquor, and larger juice containers.

These updates to the program that recycled over a half-trillion containers will cut even more litter and landfilling.

Create more jobs.

And turn more old beverage containers into new products for California industries.

We're reimagining systems to make it easier to cash in your CRV containers.
