These investments keep rescuing food

For years to come infrastructure funded will get more meals:

- Collected
- Transported
- Stored
- Distributed

Since 2018, CalRecycle has awarded over $28 million to 97 projects, resulting in:

246 Million
meals

443
local jobs

295 Million
pounds of food kept out of landfills to date

54,076
cars worth of climate pollutants cut (243,005 MTCO_{2e})

CalRecycle Food Recovery Grants:

- Create green jobs and support local economies.
- Help us recover at least 20% of previously landfilled food by 2025, an SB 1383 (Lara, 2016) mandate.
- Reduce local government costs for:
 - SB 1383 compliance.
 - Public health.
 - Hunger relief.

4 grant awards:

- Expanded the Food-to-Share Program to rescue more surplus food from schools, businesses, and backyard gleaners
- Served more low-income and food desert areas in the following counties:
 - Fresno
 - Kings
 - Kern
 - Madera
 - Tulare
- Purchased new refrigeration units, vehicles, and other equipment
- Hired more drivers, program staff, and a retail rescue coordinator for the Central Valley Food Bank

About Fresno Metro Ministry

Since 1970, Metro staff and volunteers have connected nutritious food that would go to waste to families in need by rescuing it from food donors like:

- School sites
- Processors
- Retail outlets
- Transporters
- Farmers
- Various community-based receiver organizations
- Packers

At Fresno Metro Ministry, we go beyond food distribution, championing holistic well-being. Our mission is to nourish lives, empower communities, and build a healthier, more inclusive future for all. We embrace a mindset of continuous growth, equipped with the essential infrastructure and connections to deliver healthier food to those individuals and families in greatest need.

Bought food rescue partners, including food recovery kitchens, more:

- Cold storage
- Vehicles
- Supplies

Expanded donation and partner outreach to get more surplus food:

- Donated
- Recovered
- Distributed

Increased staff, including inventory control and process managers

About Abound Food Care

- Abound Food Care, previously Waste Not OC Coalition, is building a national movement of nonprofit, public, and private partners to eliminate food waste and food insecurity.
- They turn bulk food donations into ready-to-heat-and-eat meals for Californians in need.
- Partners with buyers, processors, distributors, operators, waste haulers, jurisdictions, and food recovery groups to boost staffing, cold storage capacity, and supplies for food recovery kitchens.
- Their diverse food projects and partnerships can be replicated statewide.

From solar-powered cold storage to the mass production of ready-to-eat meals through our food recovery kitchens, our model is an effective tool for emergency food assistance. We are able to efficiently recover otherwise wasted food, repurpose it, and get it to the Californians who need it most.

- Abound Food Care CEO
Mike Learakos

We serve more than just meals – we serve hope. Thanks to our longstanding partnership with CalRecycle, we are able to continue offering our hunger-relief services that support the tremendous need in our food-insecure community.

- Added pantry programs to more schools with new staff and equipment
- Grow and staff its Food Rescue Hero app-based initiative
- Purchased cold storage units and vehicles, software, and other equipment to rescue more food

About White Pony Express

Rescues about 12,000 or more meals a day of high-quality, mostly perishable, surplus fresh food from:

- Local grocers
- Retailers
- Farmers markets, restaurants, and wholesalers.
- Sorts, then delivers the food donations to partner organizations that serve Californians in need

1 in 5 Californians skip meals or rely on food donations while we throw away perfectly good food that could wipe out hunger three times over if it was recovered. Our Food Rescue Program solves the logistical challenge of food rescue while customizing every delivery to match the preferences of our 96 nonprofit recipients in the spirit of serving our one human family.

- White Pony Express Executive Director Eve Birge
